'Antiques on the Bluff' series returns to Bluff on Sunday, May 3

One of downtown St. Joseph's signature events is gearing up for a return from May til October.

The popular Antiques on the Bluff is the place to be for rare finds and collectibles in Southwest Michigan. The 'first Sunday of the month' event returns to Lake Bluff Park in downtown St. Joseph on May 3 from 10:00a to 5:00p. Show dates are May 3, June 7, July 5, August 2, September 6 and October 4.

"Antiques on the Bluff is a unique experience for both vendors and attendees. Find something old that is new to you!" said Paul Knapp, executive director of St. Joe Today. "Held in Lake Bluff Park with Lake Michigan as the backdrop, it's a great way to spend the day outdoors!"

Attendees discover new hidden treasures each month. Shoppers will browse a variety of antique, vintage and collectible merchandise for sale from over 50 vendors.

Knapp said there is still limited vendor space available and asks that interested vendors contact Daniele, the Director of Events & Operations, at (269) 985 1111 or daniele@stjoetoday.com.

For more information on becoming a vendor, visit stjoetoday.com/antiques.

'Run for the Buds' returns on Blossomtime Parade Day, Sat. May 9th

One of Blossomtime's enduring traditions is back again this year—offering a chance to be part of the action, even while the crowds are beginning to line the streets.

The Blossomtime Festival will host the 44th annual "Run for the Buds" 5K on Saturday, May 9, the same day as the Grand Floral Parade. Runners and walkers will take to the same streets that will later be packed with parade spectators and marching bands.

The chip-timed 5K follows an out-and-back course along Main Street in Benton Harbor, starting and finishing in St. Joseph—essentially tracing in reverse part of the Grand Floral Parade route.

For participants and families, it makes for an easy way to turn the day into a full

Spring is Springing in St Joe

There is nothing quiet about the transition from winter to spring in St. Joseph, MI; it's a full-blown sensory experience. You can hear it in the "ping" of a driver hitting a golf ball, or the hum of a mercury outboard at full throttle as it passes the piers into the open waters Lake Michigan. We see it in the white sails beginning to paint the horizon, and we feel it in the increasing vibration of downtown foot traffic.

As the frost retreats and spring cleaning overwhelms, there is a collective anticipation for the best time of year. At St. Joe Today, we are ready to channel that energy into a slate of events that celebrate our incredible community. Our team has put together a great schedule designed to bring people together in downtown St Joe to enjoy everything that makes this slice of Michigan stand out.

The festivities begin on Sunday, May 3, with the return of Antiques on the Bluff. From 10:00a to 5:00p, Lake Bluff Park transforms into a curated gallery of the past, a staple event for regional collectors and casual browsers alike. There is something uniquely rewarding about finding a piece of history—be it a weathered mid-century chair, a piece of estate jewelry, or a vintage postcard—against the backdrop of Lake Michigan. If you're looking to find that one-of-a-kind addition to your home, this is the place to start your season.

As we move deeper into the month and approach the holiday weekend, we invite everyone to gather on Friday, May 22, for the annual Memorial Day Parade. The procession kicks off at 12:00p and travels along Lake Boulevard, serving as a moment to pause and honor the men and women who have given their lives in service to our country. We encourage families to arrive early and secure a spot along the bluff for this meaningful tribute.

Memorial Day weekend truly marks the "official" start of summer habits in St. Joseph, and Saturday, May 23, brings the return of two beloved seasonal staples. The St. Joe Farmers Market will open in Lake Bluff Park from 9:00a to 2:00p, offering that unmistakable atmosphere of fresh-cut flowers, vibrant early-season produce, and artisanal foods that will continue every Saturday through Labor Day.

Simultaneously, the North Pier Lighthouse Tours begin their summer schedule, open from 10:00a to 7:00p every Saturday. Whether you are a photography enthusiast looking for the perfect angle or a history buff eager to hear about our community's heritage, a walk out onto the north pier is a quintessential St. Joe experience.

This particular holiday weekend also brings a new kind of excitement as our annual stairway mural will return in Lake Bluff Park. This year's mural, proudly sponsored by "Lest We Forget," will honor America 250, serving as a vibrant tribute to our nation's milestone anniversary. We encourage you to stop by and witness the progress as this new focal point comes to life, connecting our downtown shops to our sandy shores.

To round out the month of May, we will host the Lake Bluff Artisan Fair on Saturday, May 30. Held in conjunction with the weekly Farmers Market, this fair creates an expansive footprint of local talent in Lake Bluff Park. It is the ultimate destination for those who appreciate the "handmade," showcasing everything from intricate woodworking and hand-poured candles to fine art and photography.

As the boats continue to fill the slips and the downtown sidewalks buzz with activity, we are reminded that St. Joseph isn't just a place to visit—it's a place to experience. We invite you to be part of these traditions and help us kick off a spectacular season. For the latest updates on event logistics, information about our member businesses, and a full calendar of what's to come this summer, be sure to stay connected with us at stjoetoday.com. We look forward to seeing you on the bluff!

Seeking a Second Opinion: A Wise Move for HVAC Repairs and Replacements

When the heating, ventilation, and air conditioning system in a home starts showing signs of trouble, many homeowners feel overwhelmed by the potential costs involved in fixing or replacing it. These systems are crucial for maintaining a comfortable indoor environment and controlling temperature throughout the seasons. A breakdown can lead to discomfort and higher energy expenses, prompting calls to service professionals. Yet experts in home maintenance emphasize the importance of obtaining a second opinion before agreeing to any significant repair or replacement work.

HVAC units consist of intricate components that work together to circulate conditioned air. Over years of use, parts such as compressors, coils, or fans can degrade, leading to reduced efficiency or complete failure. Service calls often reveal issues ranging from minor leaks in refrigerant lines to extensive damage requiring a new unit installation. The initial technician might recommend a quick repair to restore function temporarily or suggest a full system upgrade for better performance. However, interpretations of the same problem can differ among professionals, highlighting why verification matters.

One of the main reasons to pursue a second opinion is to confirm the accuracy of the diagnosis. Different technicians bring varied experience levels and technical knowledge to their assessments. What appears as a terminal issue to one might be addressable through targeted maintenance or part replacement by another. This second evaluation can reveal whether a repair offers a viable short-term fix or if replacement aligns better with the system's age and condition.

Financially, the practice proves advantageous as well. Repair and replacement costs vary widely depending on the provider, the quality of materials used, and the extent of labor required. Comparing multiple estimates enables homeowners to identify competitive pricing without compromising on quality. It also uncovers options that might include extended warranties or financing plans, providing greater flexibility in managing the investment. In many instances, the savings from choosing the right service can offset the time spent consulting additional experts.

Securing a second opinion will require another appointment with a different company, but it is often worth the effort. A lot of companies, like BOSS Services, provide a second opinion for free. When you call a company, make sure you ask if they offer a free second opinion prior to booking the appointment, so there are no surprise fees.

Homeowners must also prioritize working with qualified professionals. Verifying licenses, insurance coverage, and industry certifications safeguards against unqualified work that could worsen the problem. Reputable providers often welcome the opportunity for a second look, viewing it as a chance to demonstrate their expertise. Pressure tactics or vague explanations during the initial visit may signal the need for further consultation elsewhere.

Beyond cost savings, obtaining multiple perspectives contributes to long-term satisfaction with the HVAC system. A properly diagnosed and addressed issue extends the equipment's lifespan and maintains optimal efficiency. Regular preventive maintenance further reduces the likelihood of major repairs, but when they occur, informed decision-making remains essential.

Welcome New Members!

The Southwest Michigan Regional Chamber continues to grow, and this week we're highlighting a few of our newest members:

Redbud Area Ministries (RAM) was not only nominated for Non-Profit of the Year at February's Business Recognition Breakfast but they have set the tone for assistance in the Buchanan and surrounding communities.

With a mission that demonstrates the love of Christ by distributing food, clothing, household items and limited financial assistance to those in need within the Buchanan and Galien communities.

They strive to meet not only their caloric or material needs but also lighten their walk, give them back their dignity and remind them how precious they are as an individual; RAM helps them see that they need not be defined by their present circumstances. RAM is a place of grace, renewal and hope to all who enter their doors.

Last for this week is How Can I Help MI, owned by Jason Hayes, a U.S. Army veteran, brings many years of hands-on experience in construction, repairs, and custom build-outs throughout Southwest Michigan. After spending years helping homeowners and businesses solve problems, fix issues, and improve their spaces, he decided to officially launch a business built around reliable, service-driven work.

Over the years, Jason has been involved in building and improving several unique venues, including hands-on work contributing to projects such as Lazy Ballerina Winery's tasting rooms. These projects required creativity, adaptability, and attention to detail—especially in non-traditional spaces. His military background shaped his approach to work, emphasizing integrity, dependability, clear communication, and taking pride in doing things the right way.

How Can I Help MI is focused on supporting homeowners and local businesses with practical, dependable help—whether that's repairs, improvements, or custom solutions that don't always fit neatly into a category. Jason is excited to be part of the Southwest Michigan business community and look forward to connecting with fellow Chamber members and contributing to the continued growth of the region.

Blossomtime experience: run (or walk) in the morning, then stick around as the community shifts gears into parade mode an hour later.

Race day details are straightforward. Registration is $45, with packet pickup available the evening before at Silver Harbor Brewing Company in St. Joseph, and again the morning of the race starting at 8:30 a.m. The run itself follows shortly after, with an awards ceremony planned for around 11:30 a.m.

Free parking will be available at the Berrien County Courthouse.

Beyond the fitness aspect, the event also supports a longstanding Blossomtime mission. A portion of proceeds goes toward the Blossomtime Festival Scholarship Fund, which helps local students pursue further education.

While the Grand Floral Parade remains the headline event of the day, Run for the Buds carves out its own place—especially for those who prefer to be in the action rather than just watching from the curb.

Another big win for Zo's Mini Donuts at statewide pitch competition

They've done it again.

Zo's Mini Donuts is the winner of the "Michigan's Next Big Idea Pitch Competition," held in East Lansing on Tuesday, securing the mobile pastry business $10,000 to further expand.

The Next Big Idea Pitch Competition was held as part of the annual Michigan Celebrates Small Business Summit with five finalists that took the stage for a live pitch before a panel of judges. Zo's posted on social media Tuesday evening they're honored to be the big winners.

Zo's founders Zoey and Lydia Heyn told us earlier this month that if they won, they'd use the money to purchase equipment.

"In order to keep up with this demand, we need the equipment that can produce at a higher capacity," Zoey said.

"A higher production fryer, which is like niche donut world stuff, but it is super important to meet our demand," Lydia said. "Because currently, we're producing right at demand, and as our demand increases, we need to produce more donuts per hour."

Zoey and Lydia told us this will enable them to continue doing what they do best -- serving warm, freshly made donuts. You can find the signature Zo's Mini Donuts pink mobile donut kitchens in locations including St. Joseph, Sawyer and New Buffalo throughout the summer. They now have 22 seasonal employees, running five food trucks solely with local high school and college students.

This isn't the first pitch competition Zo's has won. In 2024, they won the Southwest Michigan Regional Chamber's HYPE Pitch

Grassroots group hoping to secure mental health funding for schools in Benton Harbor, statewide

A new grassroots community initiative has been formed in the Benton Harbor area to seek state support for services that will help students and the broader community.

Berrien County Commissioner Rayonte Bell is a member of Yes Fresh Start, which he tells us is working with partners like the Michigan Educational Justice Coalition to advocate for funding and policy changes at both the state and local levels. Specifically, it's advocating for $15 million in state funding to expand mental health resources in schools, including in Benton Harbor.

"We're shooting for there to be funding that could provide us counselors that will come out to about one counselor per 25 students," Bell said.

Bell says Yes Fresh Start is expanding to more communities and seeking more state support for students in those areas. While not a nonprofit itself, Yes Fresh Start is supported by groups that are.

"It's an initiative, and it receives support from a nonprofit organization, We the People Michigan, and We the People Action Fund, which are c(3) and c(4) organizations."

Yes Fresh Start is now seeking resolutions of support from local governments as it makes that call for more mental health funding in schools. The Benton Harbor City Commission this week approved such a resolution. Bell says advocacy efforts in the past helped secure school debt relief and driver's education for Benton Harbor students.

You can learn more about Yes Fresh Start at its website, where Bell says everyone's also encouraged to sign a peace pledge committing to positive action in the community.

Florida + Family + Frenzied Fun = Fluff!

As it has for several years, central Florida beckoned us once again this spring, and we did as the Merriam-Webster says you should do when beckoned – we approached Central Florida to pay it some attention.

Our attraction to that area has multiple dimensions. My wife's father lives there, as does my oldest brother and his wife. Oh, and there are a couple of theme parks you may have heard of around there. So as a birthday gift to sons Nos. 3, 4 and 5, we met up in Orlando to enjoy the frenzied excitement of the Universal brand parks.

You know what this means, right? – a random, short-attention-span "tour" of things I observed at Universal Epic, Universal Islands of Adventure, and Universal Studios.

We hadn't visited the Universal parks for many years, so their newest one, Universal Epic, was a brand-new thing for us. The boys were super-Mario-excited to go there, because – spoiler alert - one of its sections is devoted entirely to Nintendo's mega-moneymaking Super Mario Bros. franchise. No. 5 son in particular was enthralled to be immersed in theming designed to make you feel as though you are IN the Mario Bros. video games. It struck me that Mario World was a major touchstone of his childhood – we couldn't even finish naming all the Mario and Luigi and Peach and Bowser games he played over the years. He insisted on slow-walking and slow-ogling the entire section. Which is made even slower by – what else? – long lines for the rides.

Fortunately, yours truly kept his eye out for clever bits and gags scattered about the ride queues.

For example, the line for the "Mine Kart Madness" ride (which despite our early arrival was madness-ingly looooog) takes you through the lair of Bowser, the major villain in the Mario oeuvre. A good portion of the queue had us shuffling through Bowser's library – he's quite the prolific author, you see, and I spotted tomes with interesting titles such as:

"The True Story of the Super Loser Bros";

"So You Want to Rule It All: A Practical Guide to World Domination";

"Fall and Flatten – The Mindset of a THWOMP"

And my favorite, "Gwa Ha Ha! Evil Laughter Made Easy!

One of my family's favorite Universal experiences is the Spiderman ride at Islands of Adventure. I've always looked for amusing stuff while navigating its queue, which takes you through the offices of the Daily Bugle, the newspaper that employs Peter Parker, aka Spiderman, as a photographer.

This year I noticed that the computer monitors on the "desks" of the newspaper's staff are scrolling through a series of messages, most of which are strident reminders on the order of "Midnight Deadline: Turn in your final copy - or your resignation!" Which isn't at all like my arrangement with MailMax. I hope.

But the message that really caught my eye read, "We're sorry to announce the cancellation of the employee cafeteria's Legume Fest."

In a hallway with walls bearing various employee awards is a framed certificate praising "Mark Trowbridge" for "Outstanding Achievement in Photographing Pointless Fluff Stories for 20 Years." I really love that one! Mainly because that IS a lot like my arrangement with MailMax!

Exchange Club of Southwest Michigan Celebrates 105 Years of Service

The Exchange Club of Southwest Michigan is proud to announce its 105th Anniversary Celebration, honoring more than a century of service to the local community.

The celebration will be held Tuesday, April 28, 2026, at Hidden Pointe Event Hall, 1062 Nickerson Avenue in Benton Harbor. The evening will begin at 5:00 p.m., with dinner served at 6:00 p.m., followed by a special program featuring patriotic songs by Sally Stine and comedy by Craig Tournquist.

Founded in 1921, the Exchange Club of Southwest Michigan is part of the National Exchange Club, a service organization dedicated to strengthening communities through programs focused on Americanism, community service, youth programs, and the prevention of child abuse. For 105 years, the Club has remained committed to making a meaningful difference throughout the region.

Locally, the Exchange Club of Southwest Michigan has made a lasting impact through initiatives such as the Newsie/Goodfellow Sale, support of the Children's Advocacy Center, youth programs, and other community service efforts that directly benefit families in Berrien County. The Club continues to uphold its core values in all that it does.

Past National and Michigan District President Tom Karnes reflects on the organization's legacy:

"In 1921, an ambitious group of businesspeople in Southwest Michigan wanted to give back to their community in 'exchange' for their personal success. For 105 years, Club members have been united in service through projects that strengthen Southwest Michigan. The Club's values of family, community, and country have guided their efforts to make the region a better place to live. Congratulations and thank you to the Exchange Club of Southwest Michigan on 105 years of service."

The anniversary event will feature an evening of fellowship, reflection, and celebration, highlighting the Club's long-standing commitment to service and its vision for the future. Community members, partners, and supporters are invited to attend and help commemorate this significant milestone.

Tickets are $25 per person. To attend, please send a check payable to Exchange Club of SWMI to P.O. Box 8755, Benton Harbor, MI 49022.

For more information about the event or the Exchange Club of Southwest Michigan, please email Brenda Yenchus at brenda@starksfh.com

Skin Cancer Awareness: A Lifetime of Sun, A Future of Protection

May is Skin Cancer Awareness Month. It's something many of us hear about, but don't always take seriously until it hits close to home.

Now, after more than 60 years on this earth, my skin seems determined to remind me of every questionable sun-related decision I've ever made.

I remember slathering Ban de Soleil SPF 4 all over my body, fully believing that's all I needed to protect me from the sun. I wasn't protecting my skin, I was marinating it. I would lie there thinking, "just one more hour," as if my life depended on it. At the time, it felt normal. It even seemed like a better option than baby oil.

Looking back now, it's shocking to realize just how much unprotected sun exposure my skin was getting. Unfortunately, our skin remembers.

For many of us, that shows up years later as sun spots, uneven skin tone, premature aging, and sometimes skin cancer.

It's one of the reasons laser treatments have become so popular. They can help lift visible sun damage and give your skin a fresh start. I see it all the time, and it's something Meagan, our clinical laser technician, treats often. She helps clients restore a more even, healthy-looking complexion.

But as effective as those treatments are, they also come with a reality check. Prevention is everything.

That's where awareness and consistency come in. These days, SPF isn't optional for me. I wear it every single day, not just at the beach. I've been using Pavise Dynamic Age Defense because it makes it easy. It protects against UV damage while also supporting overall skin health. It's become part of my routine, and that consistency is what really matters.

And while we're talking about overall health, Vitamin D is still important for bone strength, immune support, and muscle function. I personally like Thorne Vitamin D supplements as a reliable way to maintain healthy levels without overexposing my skin.

It's also about paying attention to your skin. If something changes, a mole, a spot, anything that doesn't feel quite right, get it checked out. Early detection can make a big difference.

Skin cancer awareness isn't about giving up the sun altogether. It's about being smarter with it. It's learning from the past and making better choices for the future.

If you're starting to notice signs of sun damage, Meagan can help. She helped me. Through targeted laser treatments like BroadBand Light (BBL), she works with clients to reduce visible damage, improve skin tone, and support healthier skin long-term.

Can you believe it?

Can you believe it? Religious rule-makers of Jesus' time stole God's special day of rest and worship and made it all about rules. "Don't do this and don't do that." The Sabbath wasn't about following the rules; it was about resting in the love God has for me and all people. Can you believe it?

Can you believe it? Ancient Israelites stole any chance that others could be part of God's family by remaining secluded, segregated, separated — purebreds. They stole the title of "Father" from God and gave it to Abraham. They put Abraham up on such a high pedestal and only allowed those with Abrahamic blood in their veins to be close to God. Can you believe it?

Can you believe it? Jesus' own disciples were tempted to argue over who was the greatest, even attempting to claim the right and left throne at Jesus' side in heaven. Can you believe it?

"Anyone who does not enter the sheep pen by the door, but climbs in by some other way, is a thief and a robber." (John 10:1). Why would Jesus even allow these thieves to exist? They could steal sheep. Why not build the fences higher so they can't climb over? Why not kill off all the robbers so there isn't any threat? Why are there thieves in the first place? Just burn them all. But isn't that, too, a robbery of god's justice?

Can you believe it? Perhaps the only difference between us and them is the types of rules we make. Perhaps the only difference between us and them is the person we put up on the pedestal. Perhaps the only difference between us and them is the groups we say are in or out. When we condemn others too quickly and too harshly, it is an attempt to rob God of his authority, grasping at his gavel to hammer down a quick "Guilty!" verdict.

Maybe we shouldn't be asking "Why are there thieves?" but "Who would want to welcome a thief like me?"

Can you believe it? Our sins stole the breath of life from the Son of God. But he laid down his life so he could grant us access to his blessings. "I am the door [for the sheep]. Whoever enters through me will be saved. He will come in and go out, and find pasture." (John 10:9). Being the Shepherd, he protected me from me. Jesus doesn't wait for me to give my sins up, but he takes them from me. He takes the lives I hurt with my arrogant stealing and makes them sheep too. He tells us, "I am the gate. Don't go around or over the fence. Come through me. I'll remove your burden. Join my fold." He makes us his precious lambs. Can you believe it?

Think of a time when you judged too harshly or set up a barrier between someone and God. What would it look like to take a step back and let the Shepherd decide who is part of his fold?

Prayer: Great Shepherd, you care for me. You protect me. You love me. Fill me with your grace and gratitude for your sacrifice. Help me come to you over caring for myself. Amen.
